MISS LEILA BUNCE SPEAKS THROUGH RADIO (Atlanta Journal.)

Clothing, health and psychology are the eminently practical topics to be discussed briefly Friday night by the two speakers conducting the 7 o'clock WSB Radio university—Miss Leila Bunce, teacher of home economics, Fulton High School, and W. F. Milburn, district manager of the Advertisers company.

Miss Bunce, speaking by appointment of Miss Clara Lee Cone, head of the home economics department, Girls' school, follows up the splendid series inaugurated by Miss Cone and will tell the university circles some fundamentally important facts concerning the relation of proper clothing to good health. This is the fourth feature of the series on clothing.

Mr. Milburn, a young business expert, who delivered an immensely interesting address on the Journal's educational course some weeks ago, will have something of particular value to ambitious salesmen, sales managers and others who realize what present-day psychology means.

His subject will be "Psychology in Salesmanship." The speaker is entirely informal in his delivery, speaks from a background of extended study, active experience and emphatic success.

WILL GROW COTTON
DESPITE THE WEEVIL

D'LOACH OUTLINES METHOD BY WHICH TO SUCCESSFULLY COMBAT THE INSECT.

D. G. Bickers, of the Savannah Morning News editorial department was a visitor in Statesboro last week on the occasion of the meeting of farmers with the Statesboro Advertising Club. He heard the address of Prof. R. J. H. DeLoach before that gathering, and upon returning home he wrote of it in his paper as follows: Prof. DeLoach told his neighbors something of how he came to be intimately connected with farming in Georgia at the present time—having been assigned by the Armour people to the management of a 3,000-acre farm at Arlington. He said that the farm is being run under the usual conditions, with negro tenants. He said:

"There are no such things as elimination, eradication of the pest, the boll weevil. We may as well recognize that what we have to do to control the weevil—and for the years to come we are to be under that necessity. Get all the cows and raise all the pigs and have all the chickens you can—then you'll have to grow cotton in Bulloch county for the reasons I have suggested. Then you must either grow it for the weevil to eat or beat the weevil. You will be merely running a first class boarding house for the weevil unless you find out how to prevent the parasite from sponging on you and countering all your effort and investment and expenditure. Prepare to grow cotton this year—and right now learn how to control the weevil and prepare for that fight—and you can grow cotton here as well as I did last year at Arlington and I expect to do this year. I shall not tell you about preparation, about fertilization, about cultivation. Those elements are important factors, but you know them. The one problem for me to tell you about is the fight on the weevil. We are up against this problem. Forty thousand farm title papers changes hands in Georgia, according to one authority, in 1921 and 1922—more than in a period of fifteen years prior to those years. It is for us to tackle the job and step faster than the weevil can step."

Mr. DeLoach then laid down the fundamental proposition that the only way to control the weevil is with calcium arsenate, and he outlined his experiences demonstrating that using the poison in dry form has been successful. He would not say that other methods will not work—he knew his method has worked. The Florida method, he said, was but a variation of the method he used—the difference being that the application was made of the poison at a different period of the plant's development.

He said that the whole problem of control is mostly hard work—with the arsenate as the poison to use. It is at least sixty-five per cent work that counts—the method may amount to the other 35 per cent. He recommended calcium arsenate only and the use of it as a dry application. From North Carolina to Texas, he said, the powdered application has proved its efficiency. He said that the secret of efficient work in controlling the weevil is in the thoroughness of application of arsenate—with plenty of painstaking hard work just at the right time. He learned from experience that powdered arsenate can be dusted over the plants top soon to do any good—and labor and poison wasted; or it may be applied too late with like futile results.

The method he used first was to implement, home-made, an ordinary syringe with both ends cut out and a stick handle attached, a crocus sack fastened over one end of the can—through which sack the dry powder was dusted upon the plants. He tried several other cloths and found the crocus sack better in every way. Negro hands went through the fields and dusted the plants thoroughly with this simple apparatus, using from one to several pounds of powder to the acre—as necessary; the dusting being done just when the squares were beginning to form on the plants. He explained why this is the time—

JOE JENKINS GUILTY;
GETS THREE YEARS

VOLUNTARY MANSLAUGHTER IS VERDICT HANDED OUT BY THE JURY FRIDAY NIGHT.

Joe Jenkins a white man who fled to Colorado after the killing of "Cot" Jones, an aged negro at Millhaven last December, and who was later traced to that state by Sheriff B. T. Mallard, of this county, and captured, returning him to the Screven authorities, was convicted of voluntary manslaughter in Screven superior court at Sylvania Friday night. He was immediately sentenced to serve from one to three years, the sentence recommended in the jury's verdict.

The jury took the case at 7:30 o'clock and reached the verdict after three hours deliberation.

Statements by Jenkins and his companion, Miss Munnally, featured the morning session. The evidence was completed at 1:45 p. m., and the court allowed both sides two and one-half hours each to argue the case.

The defendant's statement was spoken in a very low tone, and could hardly be heard beyond the jury box. He attributed the killing to the alleged "insolent manner characteristic to the negro" and declared that the fight was started after Jones had cursed him.

"When my car stuck in the mud, I called upon Jones for help," the defendant stated. "While we were trying to get the car out he cursed me. When I started to reply, he drew a knife and cut at me several times. I then shot him, but he kept on fighting. We fell in a ditch and he cut me across the arm." Jenkins' coat, with a cut sleeve, was offered in evidence at this juncture.

Nunnally, who was with Jenkins during the killing but who remained in the car during the fight, confirmed Jenkins' statement in the main. He stated that Jones cursed Jenkins and that this started the fight.

Several witnesses were put on the stand by the defense to prove the good character of the defendant. The defense also introduced several witnesses who swore that the negro who was slain, was ill-tempered and generally disliked.

BREWTON MAN FOUND WITH THROAT CUT

Dublin, Feb. 27.—J. C. Maddox, a white man from Brewton, Lawrence county, ten miles from Dublin, was found dead in his lodging house at New Orleans, La., Monday, according to information received by his father, H. F. Maddox, this morning. A relative, F. A. Brantley, left immediately for New Orleans to bring the remains of the young man home for burial.

According to information received here, the landlord found the door of Maddox's room locked and finally forced entrance in the morning. He found with his head nearly severed from his body with a razor.

Authorities at New Orleans were inclined to believe it was suicide, but his family here believes he was murdered for his money, it being understood he had carried a good-sized roll with him.

Maddox was 30 years of age, a veteran of the World War, and was in business at Metter until a few months ago, when he sold out and disappeared, no one knowing where he was until news of his death in New Orleans was received.

AUTO HITS TREE;
OCCUPANTS INJURED

DEFECTIVE STEERING GEAR CAUSES CAR TO SUDDENLY LEAVE ROAD.

While returning from Savannah late Saturday afternoon where they had been in attendance upon the basketball tournament the local school boys were participants in, Mrs. Frank Grimes, Misses Sara Mobley, Louise Richardson, Lolla Ragdale, Marie Carmichael and Cornelia Collins, five young lady teachers in the local school, were badly injured when the big Studebaker car driven by Mrs. Grimes left the road while traveling at a good rate of speed and crashed into a large pine tree standing near.

The party had left Savannah about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, for a trip home but had stopped enroute several times because of an annoyance from the steering gear, though they were then unaware of the cause. The return trip had been practically completed and they were only about three miles from town when the car suddenly left the road at the W. S. Preetorius farm. The big car headed straight for a large pine tree and hit it squarely in the center which probably caused it to remain upright. The occupants were not thrown from the car by the impact but were badly cut and bruised in the shower of broken glass from the windshield and being thrown from their seats.

Mrs. Grimes sustained a badly lacerated knee, while Misses Collins and Carmichael were cut in the face by flying glass and Miss Richardson received a fractured arm and other severe injuries. The other members of the party, though bruised, fared slightly better in the wreck. The worst of the injured six were hurried to town in a truck, passing a few minutes after the accident, and given medical attention.

It was necessary to pry the car loose from its grip it had taken to the tree. It is practically a total wreck, the engine being driven back against the body by the impact. The steering wheel was torn from its base and the front seat dislodged from its position.

The young ladies are all doing fairly well but have not yet completely recovered from their injuries.

ADVERTISING MANAGER ADDRESSES LOCAL CLUB

Pays Statesboro Visit on Business Trip South.

The Statesboro Advertising Club had a special meeting of the club at the Golden-Road Tea Room last Friday night with a dinner for Carl W. Hunt, general manager of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, of which the local club is a member, at which he entertained those present with a speech on proper advertising and salesmanship.

Mr. Hunt is an expert in these lines, being the manager of the advertising clubs of the world, with headquarters in New York, and was south in attendance upon a convention in Atlanta. He had heard of the progress made by the local club and was interested in paying Statesboro a visit.

His business talk which was constructive and pointed, was heard by fifty of the members of the club and other business men who were present at the meeting.

J. M. Mallory and G. E. McWorter, of the Central of Georgia Railroad, accompanied Mr. Hunt on his visit and made short talks at the meeting. Several of the local members present made short talks and suggestions in line with the subject of Mr. Hunt and were well received.

PLAN TO MAKE TRIP TO TURNER COUNTY

AD CLUB MEMBERS INVITE FARMERS TO JOIN IN INSPECTION TRIP NEXT WEEK.

A committee from the Statesboro Advertising Club are making plans to lead a party of interested farmers and business men on an inspection tour to Turner county sometime during the coming week, starting possibly about next Tuesday.

The purpose of the trip is to study at first hand the widely-discussed conditions among the farming interests of the county, especially those pertaining to the dairy and chicken industry.

Scarcely more than a year ago the enterprising men of Ashburn established a creamery of small capacity. It flourished from the start and the output has steadily increased from the very beginning, despite the establishment of a dozen other creameries within the territory which formerly contributed to the Ashburn supply. It is said that the present time the Ashburn creamery is manufacturing 40,000 pounds of butter per month, which means an expenditure of approximately $20,000 per month for cream.

Besides the creamery, the farmers have organized a chicken hatchery of 10,000 eggs capacity in connection with this is running to its full capacity. So great have been the demands upon the hatchery that the management have been compelled to limit its operation to home demands. Chickens are being shipped out of Turner county by the carloads, and those who are familiar with the conditions declare that the farmers are becoming reconciled to the loss of the cotton crop and are thriving upon the income from their chickens and cream.

The trip to Ashburn is to be made in automobiles. It is proposed to organize a party of a dozen cars and carry as many as thirty or forty interested farmers and business men. It will require three days to make the trip, one day to be spent in the territory about Ashburn.

A. A. Dorman, S. W. Lewis and E. A. Hutch are the committeemen in charge of the movement. Any person who may be interested in the proposed trip are urged to get in communication with one of these immediately.

AUTO THIEF STEALS CAR OFF STREETS

Owner Leaves Car For Few Minutes And It Taken.

The Ford touring car owned by Mr. John Lee, and operated by him in his jitney service, was stolen last Saturday night while parked near the moving picture theatre.

Mr. Lee had left his car only about fifteen minutes previous when its absence was discovered. Presuming it had only been borrowed by a friend for a few minutes no uneasiness was felt at first. However, its continued absence prompted a search to be made which was unsuccessful. The car was about four months old. No trace has been found of it to date.

Mr. Lee's motor number was 6, 178, 319, and state license tag was No. 23,223.

OSCAR W. UNDERWOOD URGED FOR PRESIDENCY

MAY BE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE FOR PRESIDENCY IN NEXT ELECTION.

Washington, Feb. 24.—Senator Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, Democratic floor leader in the senate, may again be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. He has informed friends that after his return from Europe he will give "very careful and thorough consideration" to many suggestions to encourage the race for the 1924 nomination of his party.

The position of Senator Underwood, who sailed last night from New York for Europe, was outlined in a letter of February 2, to W. M. Coleman, of the Alabama house of representatives. After adoption by the Alabama legislature, of a resolution urging that Senator Underwood permit his name to go before the Democratic national convention next year, Senator Underwood wrote:

"The home papers advise me of the great compliment you and your colleagues paid me in the resolution passed on your motion, suggesting my name for consideration in connection with the next Democratic nomination for the presidency. I have always felt that there is no honor that has ever come to me in my public career that was greater than the honor given me by my home people in 1912 when the Alabama delegation to the Baltimore convention voted for me for the presidential nomination through 45 ballots."

"None of us are wise enough to look far into the future, and I do not think we should reach a hasty conclusion in regard to Alabama's attitude toward the next Democratic national convention. I am going away when congress adjourns for a few months' rest. When I return I shall give careful and thorough consideration to the friendly suggestion that are being made in reference to the advisability of my entering the fight for the presidential nomination of

The Statesboro Music Club held its regular monthly meeting Friday evening, Feb. 23rd, at the home of Mrs. H. B. Strange. After a business session, presided over by Mrs. W. H. Aldred, the president of the club, a very interesting program was rendered. Then followed a social hour, during which dainty refreshments were served.

The club discussed the possibility and advantages of organizing a Junior music club, the membership of which would include boys and girls from fourteen to twenty years of age. This club would not be a part of, but would be fostered by the senior music club. There is much latent talent among the young people of our town that should be developed. Through a Junior music club this talent would be given means of expression.

The members would be given training in music appreciation, church and patriotic music and chorus work. It is the purpose of the music club to organize the Junior club in the near future.

LASH IN PRISON CAMPS ABOLISHED

GOVERNOR SAYS HIS ACTION IS BASED ON PROVISIONS OF STATE CONSTITUTION.

Atlanta, Feb. 24.—"From this morning on it is illegal for any convict or prisoner in the state penitentiary or in any county chain gang in the state of Georgia to be flogged or whipped, and there is no appeal from the order abolishing the lash," said Governor Hardwick when he signed the executive order today abolishing the flogging rule in the State Prison Commission's regulations.

It is perhaps one of the most widespread reforms inaugurated in the state since legislative abolition of the old lease system, under which convicts were let to private concerns for work in lumber camps, on contract work and the like, and which, in the changing, made up one of the warmest sessions of the assembly in a generation.

Intermittently for the past ten years there have been efforts made by first one and then another of the up-lift and prison welfare organizations of the state to do away with "the lash" in prisons, but without state-wide result. Three years ago the agitation against the lash was concentrated on the city prison in Atlanta, where it had been the custom to use the "backing chair" in connection with the lash, and that agitation brought about the desired reform in the local prison, but the repeated efforts to get the movement before the legislature have not materialized.

Notice to the public. The loss in Georgia alone in 1922 from this particular pest, the boll weevil, was at least a million dollars of cotton; valued at $100.00 per bale, this is a hundred million dollars, not including the cotton seed. Add to this the value of the seed, based on current market quotations, and we have a further loss of twenty million dollars to the farmers of the state. The farmer is confused and is groping partly in the dark for a way out. He has come to the place where he must roll up his sleeves and enter into a desperate struggle with the weevil, and we have turned our attention to the problem partly in self-defense and partly to help bring back courage to the agriculture of the south.

No state can stand indefinitely such heavy losses.

In a civilized agricultural country like the United States it is the province of the state to protect agriculture and business possible, and when the sources of wealth have been crippled without the development of compensating or new sources, the people suffer and are finally reduced to woe.

In the fertilizer industry we have recognized this truth, and for the benefit of our own business and agriculture at large we have looked in every direction for relief from the ravages of this pest. We have visited all parts of the cotton belt and have studied the methods of farmers in the older infested territory; we have consulted experts, both state and federal; we have watched the control methods in theory and practice, and have finally found what has proved to be an effective remedy. This consists of the use of calcium arsenate dust applied to the growing cotton during the time of weevil infestation, supplemented by better farming, better fertilization, picking up squares in the early part of the season, more frequent and later cultivation, and constant search for the weevils in all parts of the farm.

There is no question of the importance of picking up squares. In the early part of the season we picked up all the squares, and this helped us to reduce the amount of calcium arsenate required. Also it kept the weevil under better control, because a minimum number were left to hatch out.

The successful control of the weevil is determined almost by the size of the first hatch, and if this is very small and the dusting is done effectively, the crop of cotton is a certainty so far as the weevil is concerned.

The calcium arsenate poisoning method was worked out by the Delta Laboratory of the United States department of agriculture at Tallahassee, La., and by the Georgia State Board.

VALUABLE POINTERS IN WEEVIL CONTROL

INFORMATION GIVEN BY R. J. H. D'LOACH IN ADDRESS TO FARMERS.

R. J. H. DeLoach, a former Bulloch county citizen who recently addressed the Statesboro Advertising Club and their seventy-five guests at a meeting here, is recognized world-wide as authority on boll weevil control. His coming to Statesboro was by invitation of the Advertising Club and was with the hope that he might give some suggestions which could be appropriated by the farmers of this section.

Mr. DeLoach's talk was a most practical one and many valuable pointers were obtained by those who heard him. Many other farmers in the county have been interested in his talk, and he has been asked to give some suggestions which could be appropriated by the farmers of this section.
